

REPUBLIC OF TIMOR-LESTE
NATIONAL PARLIAMENT
Law No. 9/2003
Immigration and Asylum Act

Immigration and asylum are fundamental problems in modern states. Increasing mobility of people, social and economic problems influencing many regions around the world, conflicts, terrorism and the need to keep social peace lead States to face the issue of controlling immigration flows as a fundamental component of their policies.

The geographic location of the country, in the path of important immigration flows, creates a pressing need for a legal framework that organizes immigration and asylum. Current border control is extremely deficient and is based on insufficient legal instruments that prevent the State from effectively carrying out the constitutional imperative of defending the Timorese people from the threats of transnational crime and terrorism.

The matter of refugees and the right to asylum also takes on a critical dimension in the current geopolitical context in which Timor-Leste is inserted, where the lack of clear legislative framework is preventing an adequate response. Without forgetting international instruments in this area nor the ever-present underlying human element, there is, nonetheless, a need to guarantee the right of the State to assess its capacity to provide shelter without jeopardizing internal security, international relations or the equilibrium among the Timorese society. In order to address all these matters, a legislative framework has been developed which organizes all these matters in an integrated, consistent and efficient manner to provide the Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste with the necessary instruments to control its borders and immigration flows.

Pursuant to Section 95.1, of the Constitution of Timor-Leste, the National Parliament enacts the following that shall have the force of law:
