OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF TIMOR-LESTE

LAW No. 7/2006

of 28 December

LAW ON THE ELECTION OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC

Pursuant to United Nations Security Council Resolution 1338/01 of 31 January, it is the responsibility of the United Nations Transitional Administration in East Timor (UNTAET) to ensure free and fair elections in Timor-Leste in cooperation with the Timorese people. To that effect, Regulations 2002/1 (On the election of the first President of an Independent and Democratic East Timor) and 2002/2 (On electoral offences in relation to the election of the first President) were promulgated in 2002. On that same year, the first presidential elections took place.

The Constituent Assembly, elected on 30 August 2001, approved the Constitution of the Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste on 22 March 2002, and the same Constitution entered into force on 20 May 2002.

The election of the President of the Republic is a fundamental act of the free and democratic life of all Timorese with voting capacity. The entry of this law into the internal juridical order currently in force in the country is therefore of particular importance as this law regulates the election of this organ of sovereignty which is the symbol and guarantor of national independence, of unity of the State, and of the regular functioning of the democratic institutions.

The present law underscores the independent and suprapartisan character of the presidential magistracy, which is reflected in the obligation that the presentation of presidential candidacies be made by a minimum number of 5,000 voting citizens from all districts, and that none of the candidacies can be represented by less than 100 proposers.

The present law also defines fundamental principles relating to the electoral campaign and establishes general norms relating to the presentation of candidacies, mode of election and voting procedure, the detailed definition of which is subject to regulation.

From the procedural viewpoint, the present law does not distance itself from the procedural scheme inherent to the draft-law on the election of the National Parliament, the objective being to lend coherence and harmony to the emerging Timorese electoral system.

Thus, pursuant to item 5 of article 65 and to paragraph h), item 2, of article 95, of the Constitution of the Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste, the National Parliament decrees the following to have the force of law:
